Dance in Aid of the Stanton Club Fills Ritz-Carlton Ballroom.

Society, bent on doing good and at the same time having a little diversion, was in evidence last night at two entertainments. At the Hotel Astor was held Miss Winifred Holt's sixth annual fete for the benefit of the New York Association for the Blind, styled a "Private Opening of the Panama Canal," and at the Ritz-Carlton there was a dance for the benefit of the Stanton Club, a settlement house on the lower

Before the fete Miss Holt entertained at dinner at her house, 44 East Seventy-eighth street, Gen. and Mrs. Barry of Governors Island, Dr. and Mrs. John H. The large ballroom of the Astor was decorated with flags of all nations, the American and Spanish colors predominating. Miss Holt, who were the costume of a Spanish lady, received with her dinner guests at the entrance to the ballroom. Many of the guests wore costumes suggestive of the tropics and the vicinity of Panama and they all formed in procession, marching about the ballroom with Major-Gen. Charles F. Roe as grand marshal. Miss Inga Orner of the Metropolitan Opera sang the Panama hymn, written for the occasion by Percy Mackaye, Harry Rowe Shelley, composer of the music being at the organ. There was a pretty dance to suggest the rushing of the waters into the canal, executed by Mrs. Roger Minton, Mrs. Harold Turner, Mrs. Samuel Van Duzen, the Misses Helen and Mildred Harbeck, Eva Ingersoll Brown. Elise Francke, Frances Ward, Charlotte Gilder, Priscilla Bull, Cornelia Cammann, Frances Henry, Susanne Warren, Katharine Crane, Harriet Lummis and Sybil Young. This divertissement was danced to the music Tschaikowsky's "Le Lac des Cygnes' and on a stage which was set with a scene to represent the waves. Another feature was the seagull dance by Miss Olga Marwig of the Metropolitan Opera ballet. There was also for the diversion of the guests a series of tableaux vivants entitled "Panama Through the Centuries," beginning with the settlers of the isthmus and ending with the makers of the canal. Around the ballroom floor were arranged booths for the sale of curios from Panama, souvenirs and favors of the canal opening, hats and costumes of that country. Miss Amy Green read palms at a booth and there was general dancing throughout the evening, and after midnight there was a competitive exhibition of the tango.

many assembled for the dance in aid of the Stanton Club. Boxes were placed around the room and were sold in addition to the cost of admission.

There was general dancing through out the evening and well after midnight some of the dancers were bold enough to enter a competition for prizes offered for the best dancers of the new steps.

Several dinners were given in advance of the dance-one of the largest. by Mrs. Norrie Sellar, in the restaurant of the hotel. Vecsey's orchestra played for continuous dancing in the ballroom. Supper was served in the main res taurant.
